Introduction

The City is exploring the potential sale and development of a portion of real property owned by the City consisting of approximately 23 acres (the "Property"). The Property is guided for residential development. As such, the City is requesting proposals (the "Proposals") from a housing developer with experience in single-family and multi-family development in rural communities, coupled with professional management capacity or in partnership with a professional management firm. The Property will not be sold for speculative purposes. Proposals will be evaluated on a number of factors, including, but not limited to: (1) the best offer price for the Property; (2) the proposed increase in the City's tax base as a result of the development; and (3) the quality of the development offered in the Property proposal.

The Property is located next to Stone Creek Golf Course and near other housing developments. The location is well suited for housing and should be well received by the general public and businesses.

The City, in collaboration with Benton County and Benton Economic Partnership, Inc., has invested in a housing study, conducted by Maxfield Research in 2023.

The housing study recommends, "[t]he study projects housing demand from 2022 through 2035 and provides recommendations on the amount and type of housing that could be built in Benton County and the individual submarket to satisfy demand from the current and future residents over the next decade and beyond. The study identifies a potential demand for about 3,800 new housing units."

The City prides itself as a bedroom community for individuals and families who choose to live in Foley and work in nearby cities such as the City of St. Cloud.

About Foley

The City traces its roots back to the 19th century lumber barons and the four Foley brothers who settled in Benton County in the late 1800s. The brothers originally came from Lanark in eastern Ontario, Canada. Their Irish immigrant family made Lanark their home during the second administration of President Andrew Jackson during the turbulent 1830s.

Michael Foley was the first brother to come to Minnesota. He arrived in 1870 and immediately saw the huge economic opportunities Minnesota had to offer. He was catapulted into the lumber industry through his business contacts with James J. Hill, "the empire builder."

Michael later returned to Lanark to persuade his brothers, Thomas, Timothy, and John to join him in seeking their fortune in the Land of Sky-Tinted Water. They agreed and the four brothers formed a partnership that would last a lifetime.

Lumber Barons and Railroads

The Foley brothers bought 80 acres of land in Gilmanton Township and set up a logging camp and steam sawmill at the site of the present-day village along with other camps throughout Benton County. The brothers contracted with the Great Northern Railroad to cut the white oak trees in the surrounding area into lumber.

The sawmill produced high-grade lumber for bridge timbers and frames for railway cars. Second-grade oak was made into railway ties. Wood from the Foley mill helped to build the railroad, which extended through the logging camp westward from St. Cloud in 1882.

To supply the needs of the lumber and railroad workers, businesses moved to the camp and set up shop. By 1898, the Foley brothers filed the original plat of the village and the economy boomed. A hotel was built and stores opened. A bank, newspaper, drug store, livery stable, meat market, machinery dealer, cafes, and saloons lined the streets.

By the beginning of the 20th century, the supply of big logs from the heavy timber of Benton County came to an end. Though the big trees were gone and logging ended, there was still an unlimited supply of trees ready to be manufactured into wood products that were much in demand.

New Industry

John Foley foresaw the end of the logging and sawmill business and made plans for a new wood industry in Foley. He donated several acres of his land for new businesses. Three mills sprung up south of the railroad tracks. These mills, or pail factories, became known as the Wood and Stave Mills and Heading Mills.

The Village of Foley was incorporated on March 21, 1900.

The new mills manufactured wood staves for pails, barrels and wood boxes of all sizes. Ash and basswood were in great demand and was the most suitable for making pails and barrels. Oakwood was used extensively in making whiskey kegs and beer barrels, which were used for shipping liquor and beer. At the time, every saloon served tap beer and sold whiskey in bottles from the kegs. Wood barrels of various sizes were used to ship everything from flour, salt, coffee, fruit, vinegar, and groceries.

By March 21, 1900, when the population was 172, the community was incorporated as a village. It was named for John Foley, whose many generous contributions had helped to build the town.

On March 4, 1901, the citizens of Foley circulated a petition to be presented to the county commissioners pledging $12,000 to build a new courthouse and move the Benton County offices from Sauk Rapids to Foley. John Foley deposited $12,500 in the Foley Bank to cover the pledges and other costs of the new courthouse. The election was held in June, and it was reported that there were 788 votes for keeping the county seat at Sauk Rapids and 1,284 votes for moving it to Foley.

Benton County Government Center – Foley, MN

By the time Foley became the Benton County Seat, lumbering had decreased in importance in the area. The surrounding land was soon cleared and made into farms. The region, once referred to as oak country, became dairy country and the businesses of Foley, which had served for the lumber industry, now served the farmers.

The City in Benton County, MN is located about an hour north of Minneapolis and just 18 minutes north of St. Cloud — offers families and retirees an opportunity to own a home for less than nearby major metros like the Twin Cities. Our median home value is just $171,296 — well below the national average. Compared to the rest of the country, the City's cost of living is 13.6% lower than the U.S. average. The City has a strong economic base and many of Foley's residents have a college education and work in sectors like public administration and healthcare.

The three largest employers in Foley are Foley Public Schools (400 employees), Benton County (260), and Blow Molded Specialties (100).

Major roads are U.S. Trunk Highway 10, a four-lane divided highway connecting St. Cloud to the west and Mora to the west; and Minnesota State Highway 25, a two-lane secondary road running north and south from the city.

Market Feasibility Study

In 2023, Benton County engaged Maxfield Research and Consulting, Inc. to conduct a housing, market feasibility study for Benton County area housing supply and demand, completing an analysis of the area, conducting interviews with local housing professionals and implementing in-depth research on the local economy & demographics, Maxfield Research and Consulting, Inc. concluded the demand was divided between general-occupancy housing (65%) and age-restricted senior housing (35%). Our inventory of general-occupancy rental housing found a vacancy rate of under 2% indicating pent-up demand for rental units while senior housing properties posted a vacancy of just above 6% (at market equilibrium) however service-intensive product has elevated vacancies since the pandemic. The vacant lot supply is low in most submarkets, whereas the Sauk Rapids and St. Cloud submarket have available lots in the short-term. As a result, new platted lots are needed immediately in most of the county. A copy of this study is available upon request.

Financial Incentives

The City is able to provide the following financial incentives to assist with the development of this project.

Land Subsidies

The City has offered reductions and land subsidies to housing developers creating housing that:

- Is affordable to households at 60% of the Area Median Income and lower;
- Is intended for seniors or those 55+;
- Is moderate to higher density, multi-family housing.

American Rescue Plan Act Funding

- Funding through the American Rescue Plan Act is available.

In July of 2021, the City received Federal funds through the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA). The City (in partnership with Benton County) has committed $1 million of its ARPA funds toward the development or redevelopment of new housing, specifically targeting workforce or middle-income housing. The City recognizes the high cost and logistics challenges in the current development market; the ARPA funds are intended to fill financing gaps and enable the development of these housing units by providing funds to assist with the cost of sanitary sewer and water. The City is interested in proposals that include residential development with as many housing units as possible targeting workforce; for the purpose of this RFP, the term “workforce” means unit rents that are no more than 30% of a household’s income that is 80% or less of the area median household income, as published annually by Minnesota Housing Finance Agency (<https://www.mnhousing.gov/sites/multifamily/limits>).

Project Proposals

The City is soliciting responses to this Request for Proposal (RFP) for the design, financing, construction of housing on the City owned site located next to Stone Creek Golf Course with frontage on CR51 in Foley. The Foley City Council will select the development team and enter into a Development Agreement.

After a development team is selected, there will be an additional due diligence period. Ultimately, the selected development team, (“Developer”) and the City shall enter into a Development Agreement providing for the development of the project pursuant to a development site plan, schedule and financing plan.

Proposal Requirements

Proposals should include the following:

Identifying Information – A completed and signed letter which includes background information such as developer name, address, contact and key personnel.

Proposal Narrative with Conceptual Site Plan – A written and graphic summary of the proposed development, which shall include an explanation of how the proposed development is intended to be integrated into its surroundings and will support broad principles of neighborhood development. The City does not expect detailed design or architectural documents.

- Note: Successful respondents will become “subrecipients” of ARP State and Local Fiscal Recovery Funds and will fall under the City’s Business Subsidy Policy. To be awarded, respondents must have an active SAM.gov registration.
- Selected proposals must adhere to all related compliance and reporting requirements.
- Selected proposals must enter into a development agreement and are subject to requirements of city code.
